Day 1 of the conference commenced with participant registration, marking an enthusiastic beginning to the academic event. The Inaugural Session, opened with a warm welcome Address delivered by Dr. Kirti Singh, Principal, Vedanta College, Kolkata. This was followed by an inspiring inaugural speech by the esteemed Chief Guest, Prof. Dr. Subir Chandra Dasgupta, Honorary Emeritus Professor, Department of Zoology, Ramakrishna Mission Vidyamandira, Belur Math. His address highlighted the significance of interdisciplinary research and the urgent need for sustained efforts in promoting global health and hygiene.

practices. Following the Tea Break, the conference advanced into its core academic engagements with the commencement of two Technical Sessions. Both sessions showcased a diverse range of research works, reflecting emerging trends, innovative methodologies, and significant findings in health, hygiene, and allied life sciences. After the Lunch Break at the technical sessions resumed allowing participants additional opportunities to present their research and engage in academic dialogue. The interactive environment encouraged productive discussions between presenters, judges, and attendees, strengthening collaboration and knowledge-sharing. The session summarized the day's academic activities, acknowledged the contributions of speakers, judges, organizers, and participants, and set a positive tone for the continuation of the conference on the following day.

The final day of the Two Days International Conference on Health and Hygiene featured a series of insightful academic sessions beginning with registration at. The inaugural session included special addresses by Dr. Soumik Banerjee and Dr. Santanu Rana, followed by lectures from Prof. Dr. Krishnendu Acharya and Dr. Nilanjan Chakraborty. Both offline and online technical sessions showcased diverse research presentations on health and hygiene. Participants engaged in meaningful discussions, constructive feedback, and knowledge-sharing throughout the day. Several emerging themes and solutions were highlighted, underscoring the importance of collaborative research, improved hygienic practices, technological intervention in healthcare, and sustainability in public health systems. An international address by Professor Sylvie Rapior enriched the programme with global perspectives. In the concluding session, the organisers expressed gratitude to all speakers, delegates, and resource persons for their valuable contributions. Special acknowledgement was given to the international resource persons and partner institutions for enriching the academic experience. Certificates were distributed, and feedback from participants reflected a high level of satisfaction with the quality and organisation of the conference. The event officially ended with the valedictory remarks, summarising the achievements of the two-day programme and emphasizing the need to continue promoting research and awareness on health and hygiene. The organisers reaffirmed their commitment to hosting more such academic events in the future to foster global collaboration and scientific progress.
